WINNER Matt Jones

The Xpro zine is finally here!

Xpro was the 5th Matt Loves Cameras podcast community collab competition. For those who've never heard of it, xpro is short for "cross processing". This is the act of processing film in a chemical solution intended for a different type of film. The process can create interesting and unique effects, as you'll see from the incredible range of images featured in this zine.

Thank you to everyone who took part in the competition. Thank you also for your patience waiting for this zine - this has been the longest running competition I've ever run. Unlike the previous 4 collabs, this zine is digital only.

To view all entries and details about the images and contestants, check out the competition page <https://mattlovescameras.com/xpro-2022-competition-entries/> Each contestant had a single image chosen for inclusion in this zine.

Thank you also to my co-judge and friend Matthew Joseph. You can hear our descriptions and thoughts on the photos in the 3 xpro podcasts that appear on Matt Loves Cameras podcast between September 2022 and February 2023.
